CMA Balwinder Singh, Immediate Past President ICAI sharing his views

Shri Raj Kumar More, Director, Torsa Machines Ltd and Representative of Federation of Industry & Commerce of North Eastern region (FINER) believed that Corporate Governance should be followed by all companies irrespective of size and by following a strong Corporate Governance policy, an organization can create wealth and value for the company as well as various stakeholders.

Shri B. Paul Muktieh, Chairman and MD, NEDFi talked about how previously there were not very specific guidelines for Corporate Governance, and after a point of time, people started to realise the need for such specific guidelines. He also talked about how it was extremely important to have unbiased Independent Directors in the Board to tackle the issue of corporate crisis. He suggested the best way to do it was to have people who were nominees from the government and that having adequate experience and education should be one of the key criteria when it comes to appointing Independent Directors.

Shri B. Paul Muktieh, Chairman and MD, NEDFi sharing his views

Dr. M Ariz Ahammed, IAS, Principal Secretary, Public Enterprises Department provided the participants with an insight into the Public Sector Enterprises in Assam. Dr. M Ariz Ahammed, IAS, Principal Secretary, Public Enterprises Department making his presentation

First Technical Session

The first technical session was based on the theme of 'Corporate Governance and Board'. It covered the aspects of how a Board is structured for both listed and unlisted companies, and the roles and functions of various committees required to be constituted under the Companies Act, 2013, and SEBI (LODR), 2015.

Prof. Papori Baruah, Dean, School of Management Sciences, Tezpur University stated that the Corporate Governance landscape has been changing the world ever since. Various irregularities and scams have often put certain boards under fire, and the board plays a vital role in Corporate Governance of companies.

Shri Vijay Kapur, Former Director, Board of Studies, The Institute of Chartered Accountants of India and Members, Board of Post Graduate Studies, Department of Commerce, Tezpur University put forward his opinion regarding the use of Corporate Governance and the factors that are essential to have a potentially strong Board. He stated that the Companies Act, 2013 proved to be a major changemaker when considering Corporate Governance. The Companies Act, 2013 saw a reduction in the number of sections to simplify the processes and reduce complications associated with the previous Act. One of the reasons why the Government had amended the Act was due to the rising scams such as the Satyam scam which happened because of the exploitations of the loopholes in the policies. He emphasised that the Directors should act in the best interest of the company while taking into considerations their employees, shareholders, stakeholders and the community. His take on Independent Directors was that they are the 'cheerleaders' of the company. An Independent Director should be a person of integrity and must have relevant experience in the concerned field. He talked about the Framework of Integrity which, according to him exceeds professional competency. Integrity and Independence are the cornerstones of effective decision making. He also mentioned that India has become a very competent country and even the most developed countries cannot ignore India when it comes to formulating important policies.

Shri Vijay Kapur delivering his session

Second Technical Session

The second technical session was based on the theme of Financial literacy for boards, it covered the aspects of how understanding the financial facts and the irregularities are important in the practice of Corporate Governance. He stated that to maintain good Corporate Governance in a company, one must be able to understand the red flags and the pressure points which are the vital indicators of governance failures. He emphasized that Finance is said to be the lifeblood of any business. However, experiences have shown that plenty or scarcity is harmful to any venture. A greatly successful business-like Enron created the illusion of 'Too Big to fail", but soon it was realised that it was a myth. Corporate Governance failures mostly have one common factor. The misappropriation of actual funds or misstatement of information related to finance. Either of them has devastating effects on the shareholders' value and spoils the market sentiments. The volatility in the market will always be present but instances like widespread manipulation made in the IL&FS case shake the confidence of investors. Many Board room decisions or reports of third parties like Credit Rating agencies seems to be worthless when the entire Governance mechanism shatters like glass. Words like accountability, transparency seems to be theoretical concepts when financial information is falsified.

CMA BB Goyal, Former Additional Chief Advisor, Ministry of Finance, Govt of India stated that in whichever position a Board Member is sitting it is important for him/ her to understand and interpret the financials of the company. If he/she is not financially literate, it is difficult to expect a goal driven approach from the company. A board will not be able to discharge its responsibilities without having fundamental knowledge of finance. The law expects that the members of the board be financially literate. He pointed out that without proper knowledge the board would not be able to examine the auditor's report or other financial statements. He also gave an in-depth analysis of how directors should act and behave, what is expected of them as per the Companies Act, 2013. According to the dignitary, Financial literacy is the ability to understand the income statements, the cash flow statements and the balance sheet. He also talked about financial frauds, which in today's world happen very frequently. Some of the common techniques stated by him for Financial Frauds include siphoning and diversion of funds through other groups and companies, misclassification of assets and liabilities, hiding loans, bad debts, understatement of liabilities, overstatement or understatement of costs/expenses to manage profit/losses and taxes. In order to detect and prevent Financial frauds, one should use common performance ratios and comparative trends, take help of data analytics, what if analysis, promote whistleblower policy, study movement of operational sales/revenues and earnings and link it with flow of production and inventories. One should also study relationships between income and expenditure statements, cash flow and financial statements.

Snapshot of presentation being made in the second technical session

Third Technical Session

The third technical session talked about the responsibilities and expectations of members. This session stressed on understanding how the shareholders fulfil their roles and responsibilities in order to bring a change in the Corporate Governance regime.

CMA Debasish Mitra, Chairman, Board of Advanced Studies & Research and Members in Industry Committee, ICAI talked about the importance of Corporate Governance in companies by providing a case study concerning the Central Public Sector Enterprises. He stated that corporate governance cannot be just controlled by the Companies Act. It is a concept, a journey but it does not have a destination. He stated that Public Sector Undertakings even though, they are controlled by govt, but however, the day-to-day functioning is controlled by the policies of the Board of Director. The government however exercises an indirect control over these entities through an important mechanism called MoU. Board of Directors, Audit Committee, Remuneration Committee, Disclosures, Compliance Report are some of the key pillars of Corporate Governance for Public Enterprises.

CMA Dr D.P. Nandy, Sr. Director, The ICAI commented on the responsibilities of the board in a company. He stated that the boards should be accountable to the members and provide regular reports. And the company directors are expected to act with honesty and integrity towards the company, any decisions taken by these directors should be of the highest level of honesty. He also suggested that the Board should conduct themselves to meet the operational transparency so as to meet the expectations of all stakeholders. Board of Directors should also ensure that financial reports are made with utmost integrity and these reports should also provide strategic guidance to set up a corporate culture that is ethical and is in the best interests of the company. He stated that the key functions of the board include reviewing and writing the corporate strategy, risk policy, formulating budgets and performance plans.

Fourth Technical Session

The fourth technical session was based on the aspects of risk management and whistleblowers. The session mainly covered the importance of whistle blowers and the whistle blower mechanisms.

CMA Chittaranjan Chattopadhyay, Chairman, Banking, Financial Service & Insurance Committee and Indirect Taxation, ICAI talked about the regulations, risk taking and risk management responsibilities in order to observe good corporate governance. He suggested that regulations on Corporate Governance helps in ensuring that companies perform in the best interests of stakeholders at large and professionals have even greater responsibility to execute in terms of Corporate Governance.

When it comes to risk mitigation, risk taking is a fundamental driving force of business and entrepreneurship, but the cost of risk management failure is often underestimated. For sound business management, Risk Management should be an inherent function. The board of Management should take active measures to effectively manage and deal different risks for entities.

He stated that whistle blowing mechanism plays a critical role in implementing proper Corporate Governance. He also stated some very famous whistle blowing cases that have impacted the corporate landscape in the country.

Finally, he concluded that CMAs could contribute to improving the scenario of Corporate Governance in the country by bringing together their commercial acumen, strategic understanding and softer people skills in addition to their much sought after legal and governance knowledge.

CMA Chittaranjan Chattopadhyay sharing his views

CS Amitava Banerjee, Visiting Faculty, Tezpur University stated that the first level of corporate governance is 'Transparency'. The esteemed speaker mainly talked on the various aspects of Whistle blowers and the mechanisms associated with it. He also talked about whistleblowing from the perspective of an employee and not an activist. He emphasised on this notion with an example of a case. He suggested that an unlisted company should also have a whistleblowing policy.

CS Amitava Banerjee, Visiting Faculty, Tezpur University making his presentation

Insights as a 'Regulator and the changing scenario on Corporate Governance'

CS Biman Debnath, Vice Chairman, EIRC of the ICSI put forward his views regarding corporate governance. He stated that if Corporate Governance has to be implemented properly in an organization, it must be implemented from the top; the flow must be downwards. In a Board meeting, a CS always sits next to the chairman and hence must maintain a rapport with the Chairman. Also, a company should decide what kind of Independent Directors they seek and the promoters should not get into the day-to-day operations of the business.

Every director must know if they are following the guidelines of Corporate Governance. When it comes to deciding Independent Directors, the corporations must be extremely choosy Directors and Promotors should not have a say when it comes to picking Independent Directors.

CS Biman Debnath, Vice Chairman, EIRC of the ICSI sharing his views

Dr. Ramesh Kumar, Registrar of Companies, Guwahati stated that corporate governance is quintessentially a set of laws, rules that assists the business and that Corporate Governance brings transparency. The component of good governance is all about transparency, fairness to shareholders and independence.

He pointed that the Registrar of Companies (RoC) is an office under the Ministry of Corporate Affairs. At present there are 25 RoCs under major cities of India. The Central Govt has administrative control over RoC. He also said that the RoC can ask for supplementary information if needed from companies including books of accounts.
